COVID-19 Essential Business Operations

A notice from President & CEO, Alan Recher

Authorities in many of the cities and counties that we serve across the Southeast United States have issued COVID-19 related “Safer-at-Home” directives for residents to remain at home. An exception to these orders has been made for essential businesses.

One category of essential businesses includes those that supply other essential businesses with the support or supplies necessary to operate. Our business provides such support and supplies.

We continue to operate and support our partners in essential businesses in industries such as healthcare, defense and military, food and agriculture, manufacturing, public safety, energy, transportation, public works, communications, and others deemed essential by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

If you have any questions or concerns, please reach out to your local Five Star contact or send us an email at safety@fivestarfoodservice.com

Be Well!

Staying up to Date

We will continue to communicate updates via email, postings on our website, and to social media. Those links are as follows: www.fivestarfoodservice.com/covid-19, Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter and Instagram.
